Mobilize Women, Says Club Halldale Group Sets Paper Drive

In view of the world situation and the increased labor demands, the eight-hour work law for women should be relaxed, believes the California Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

At the state board meeting this weekend at Montecito, a resolution asked Governor Warren to take this action as soon as necessary in view of the world picture.

Section 1350 of the Labor Code prohibits a woman working more than eight hours in any one day. During the last war this was temporarily changed.

This resolution came from the economic development workshop, at which Mrs. David Fulwider, state chairman, presided.

Another resolution presented by this committee asked clubs to assume leadership and responsibility in community surveys for available woman power for employment mobilization.

From the education and vocations workshop conducted by State Chairman Loretta Williams of San Francisco, came a recommendation for national action on Equal Pay for Equal Work, long time interest of the BPW.

In a series of talks with the national board of the National Association of Manufacturers, it is thought that the national board of the BPW could more successfully present its side of the case to the employers, says Mrs. Williams.

A resolution also opposed legalized gambling in this state, and asked member clubs to work against Proposition No. 6.

Midsummer is the time mothers begin back-to-school thoughts about Fall wardrobes for the children, with the accompanying activity of sorting out clothes and shoes stored in closets.

With this in mind, Brigadier Fred Ohn, manager of the Salvation Army social service center serving the Torrance area, is urging mothers to remember the Salvation Army when discarding clothing, shoes, and other articles no longer needed.

A telephone call to Torrance 1563 will bring a Red Shield truck to the home or office to make pickups of any castoff materials, he said. These include, in addition to wearing apparel, furniture, appliances, and miscellaneous articles.

Brigadier Ohn emphasized today that rehabilitation of the handicapped and needy through the Salvation Army social service center program is carried on solely through the use of unwanted articles. The service center accepts no cash donations.

July Blood Collection 5230 Pints A total of 5230 pints of Red Cross-collected whole blood was delivered to more than 100 hospitals and clinical laboratories in Los Angeles and Orange counties during the month of July.

The vast majority of the whole blood was utilized in the hospitals for transfusion use in saving lives and hastening the recovery of surgery patients, the report disclosed.

Meanwhile, Red Cross blood donor recruitment leaders here, supervised by Mrs. H. B. K. Willis, studied various ways and means of boosting the monthly blood collection to coincide with General George C. Marshall's order of "immediately expand the Red Cross civilian blood service program throughout the nation."
